

PRESIDENT INFORMS CONGRESS AND NATION THAT U. S. ARMED FORCES MUST BE MOBILIZED ON EMERGENCY FOOTING

To Back Up A Foreign Policy Pledged to Save an Ever-Shrinking Democratic World From Communist Aggression

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—President Truman told Congress today that the United States must mobilize its armed might because Russia and her satellites have refused to co-operate for peace and world recovery.

The Chief Executive said that the Soviet Union and her subject states have refused an invitation to co-operate in the European Recovery Program.

Mr. Truman in his dramatic personal appearance before a joint session of Congress asked for:

- 1—A return to the wartime draft.
- 2—Speedy enactment of universal military training.
- 3—Immediate Congressional approval of the Marshall Plan.
- 4—Support of the recently-created union of five Western European democracies.
- 5—Immediate steps to bring the nation's armed forces to fully effective strength.

He accused Russia of "violent hostility" to ERP and asserted that the Communists are "aggressively attempting to wreck it."

The President added grimly: "They see in it a major obstacle to their designs to subjugate the free community of Europe."

The President charged that Russia has persistently obstructed the peace-making efforts of the United Nations by use of her veto power. He added:

"But that is not all. Since the close of hostilities, the Soviet Union and its agents have destroyed the independence and democratic character of a whole series of nations in Eastern and Central Europe."

"It is this ruthless course of action, and the clear design to extend it to the remaining free nations of Europe, that have brought about the critical situation in Europe today."

Mr. Truman told Congress that "the tragic death of the republic of Czechoslovakia has sent a shock throughout the civilized world."

He pointed to the Red pressure now being brought to bear on Finland and the Communist scheme to win control of Italy.

The President warned: "We must be prepared to pay the price of peace, or assuredly we shall pay the price of war."

Mr. Truman's message was not a "war speech." He read the record of Russian aggression but left the door open to the Soviets to join with the democracies in an attempt to gain a lasting peace. Both his language and his delivery of the message were of a high order.

Granted Parole; Leaves For Statesville, Georgia

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 17.—On for Statesville, Georgia, with a $13.50 bus ticket in his pocket and $1.50 in change, Nathaniel Jackson, Negro, bade goodbye to Bucks county yesterday. He was granted a parole by Judge Calvin S. Boyer, on condition that he go back home and "stay home," after getting enough money together to take him home.

Jackson was implicated in a gambling house raid near Morrisville several months ago, and was in charge of the proprietor's "cut" that was taken in the various gambling games.

Probation Officer Horace E. Gwinner and some friends at the prison saw to it that Jackson got a new pair of shoes for his trip home. He had been wearing bed-room slippers since his arrest.

NEW MOTOR TAGS ARE NOW IN STYLE

Cars With 1948 License Plates Now Have The New Look

OVER 1,250,000 ISSUED

By Jack Ward
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 17.—(INS)—More than 1,250,000 motor vehicles in Pennsylvania have donned the latest approved "fashion"—1948 license plates.

Another 850,000 owners have until April 1 to "get in style," according to the State Revenue Department.

This year's plates are an ultramarine blue background with golden yellow numerals and required 1200 tons of steel in the making. An additional 10,000 gallons of blue paint, 7,000 pounds of numeral "ink," and 6000 gallons of clear varnish went into their manufacture.

Mailing of the new tags to owners required approximately 3,000,000 sheets of waxed paper, more than 2,225,000 envelopes and 50,000 shipping cartons, the Bureau of Prison Industries reported.

Produced by more than 100 inmates in Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, the manufacturing cost of 1948 license tags will reach approximately $400,000, or 16 cents a set, according to F. Herbert Cooper, director of Prison Industries.

"Our workers are going full tilt on an overtime schedule to keep up with the demand for 1948 tags," Cooper said. "More than 2,000,000 have been completed and the plant will have to work through to the end of March to complete the job."

At that time, production of 1949 licenses will begin, he added.

RETURN OF THE MOOSE

LOGAN, Utah.—(INS)—Moose is not extinct in the forest areas of northern Utah, and they will return in larger numbers if given proper protection. Dr. G. H. Kelker of Utah State Agricultural College reported recently.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

House Speaker Martin, warned that the nation faced "a grave crisis" in international relations and urged large additional appropriations for the Army, Navy and Air Forces to strengthen the country to meet any eventuality.

Senate consideration of the Republican-sponsored tax-reduction measure was delayed until tomorrow to permit study of the possible effects on Government expenditures of any program that the President might propose.

The House approved, 251 to 222, an extension of rent control until March 31, 1949. The measure would give local rent advisory boards autonomy to raise rents or to offer freedom from controls.

As the walkout of soft coal miners spread, a spokesman for the operators accused John L. Lewis of stoppage to force an agreement in violation of the Taft-Hartley Law.

The nation's meat production was cut in half as the strike of 100,000 CIO workers in 140 packing houses entered its second day.

The Paris conference of the 16 Marshall Plan nations invited the three occupation zones of western Germany to join in the European Recovery Program. The Portuguese Foreign Minister asked the conference to consider a similar invitation to Spain.

The delegates, ending their plenary sessions, set up a working committee to draft a treaty for mutual economic aid and a charter for permanent organization. They also adopted a report emphasizing the inability of western Europe to advance much further in economic cooperation without United States aid.

One of the leading Communists of western Germany, Max Reimann, was suspended from the Bizonal Economic Council for two months for having implied that politicians supporting the merger of the United States and British zones were traitors to Germany.

Italy, which will hold vital important elections next month, will receive 29 merchant ships as a gesture of friendship from this country.

In Prague it was disclosed that several more leading politicians opposed to the present regime have been stripped of Parliamentary immunity as a prelude to trial on charges of treason.

At Lake Success, Syria's representative told the Security Council that the Arab States would not participate in the fighting in Palestine if no other foreign force were involved. This pledge was the appearance of friendship from this country.

TRADING OUT U. S. A.

Few Americans are following the Havana sessions of ITO—the International Trade Organization, which is seeking a charter to freeze world trade and tariff relations.

This is a great pity, because Uncle Sam is putting his neck into a noose that, in coming years, may seriously injure the jobs, earnings, investments and prosperity of all American citizens.

What is going on at Havana is that a handful of men you never heard of, men who were never elected to any public office—let alone the important ones they are filling—and men who know from their own experience virtually nothing of the problems of working people, plant operators or investors, are negotiating with representatives of virtually all other nations around the world to "control" international trade.

Last year a long conference was held at Geneva to lay the groundwork for this charter. This meeting was held under the most rigid censorship. Efforts of American business men, of newspaper reporters, and of organizations such as the Tariff League, to find what was done, and why, were unsuccessful.

At the end of the Geneva meeting, two documents were made public. One was a tentative agreement for the world charter. This was written in what has come to be known as "gobly-de-gook"—bureaucratic double-talk so involved that attorneys and other experts in trade matters are unable to decide what the terms of the agreement mean.

The other announcement was a list of hundreds of items of American production in which the U. S. representatives had made large new tariff "concessions." In each of these items a tariff already too small to protect American production costs, including American wages, was further reduced.

It was to formulate the vague terms of the Geneva Agreement into a charter, which eventually will have to be ratified by Congress, that the Havana meeting was called. It has been going on for four months. Unlike the Geneva sessions last year, the Havana meetings have been mostly open to newspapermen.

They have been covered in sketchy style. Public interest has been turned in other directions. Even the few newspapers with reporters on the spot have been content to hit only the high spot. And, unfortunately, most of the newspapers which have assigned men to the story at all are papers which have a strong bias in tariff and foreign-trade matters.

This bias can run in several directions. Newspapers in New York, for example, tend to represent shipping groups and international bankers rather than manufacturers. Other papers may be so involved in supporting the New Deal that they are unwilling to help point out its mistakes.

The reason that the Havana sessions have run so long, and why the charter is still incomplete, although the time when it will need to be given to Congress is rapidly approaching, is that there has been no real meeting of minds between the American representatives and those from other countries.

The Americans are hand-picked disciples of the Roosevelt-Hull school, who believe in free trade. They are against tariffs of any kind, either for revenue or for protection.

"KEEPING HOUSE IN CAIRO" IS SUBJECT

Mrs. Ralph Dwinell, of George School, Speaks To Bucks County D. A. R.

SESSION AT NEWTOWN

NEWTOWN, Mar. 17.—At the meeting of Bucks County Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held Monday at the home of Mrs. Frank Fabian, here, Mrs. Ralph Dwinell, George School, was the guest speaker.

In opening her talk on "Keeping House in Cairo," Mrs. Dwinell mentioned that George Washington was an idol of the Egyptians, probably because they wanted their independence from the British—which they later attained.

It has been 13 years since Mrs. Dwinell spent three years in the land of the Pharaohs, and at that time when her husband was at a university there, there were only 300 living in the American colony.

She informed that "In Cairo five languages were spoken. Arabic was usually understood by all. It was almost a necessity to learn this language; also to have native servants as cooks and laundry workers on account of methods of equipment used or attainable."

Mrs. Dwinell added that there was an evening church service held due to the heat during the day. The majority of the people were of the Mohammedan religion, some for business reasons only. Shopping was slow as the first prices asked are known to be excess of the expected, but tact must be used to save "face."

Sometimes tea or coffee are served while the sale is being made.

Information also included that blindness is prevalent among the natives because of flies and other pests, and being fatalists, natives do nothing to prevent blindness.

Girl From Holland HAS 1ST REAL PARTY

REVERE, Mar. 17.—A "real party," the first she has ever had, has made a little girl from Holland very happy.

One of four children arriving in the United States from Holland three months ago, Gerduia vanEmmerick, observed her seventh birthday anniversary and it was an event she and others in her family will never forget.

Members of the vanEmmerick family, now living here, went through all the hardships of war while living in Holland with the result that it was impossible to make much of an occasion of anniversaries.

Gerduia cried for joy and surprise because of the birthday cake and the party, and her mother wept with happiness to think that after all the famine war years in Holland she was able to be in America to give her children what every mother dreams of in her plans for them.

Since the arrival of the vanEmmerick family in this country there has been an addition to the family, a little girl, named Helena for her American godmother.

The baby was born in Doylestown Emergency Hospital and Mrs. vanEmmerick had nothing but praise for the nursing staff and Dr. Edward E. Koonce, Ottsville, even though it was impossible to understand each other because of the difference in languages.

Claiming it was like a vacation, Mrs. vanEmmerick said: "If it is like this to have babies in America, why aren't there larger families here?"

SPECIAL MEETING

There will be a special meeting of the Junior Travel Club tomorrow evening in the club home at eight o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

"Whereas, The Delaware division of the Pennsylvania canal is now owned and controlled by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and

"Whereas, The said canal or that portion thereof which passes through the borough of Bristol is adjacent to the thickly populated section of said borough, and

"Whereas, The upkeep of the said canal is and has been for a long time, grossly neglected and the said canal has become a depository of filth, the water therein is stagnant and it is a detriment to the progress of the community and a hazard to health, now

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, at a regular meeting of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, that we condemn the action of the authorities in permitting this condition to exist and demand that some immediate steps be taken to remedy this condition and eliminate the canal as a hazard to the health of the people of this community, and it is further resolved, that a

HOW TO GET A HOUSE BUILT

Writing from Stockholm to a New York newspaper, George Axelsson says that the Swedes "have gone to extremes on the subject of law and order, and in their zeal to reach perfection have created a jungle of regulations and orders that complicate the everyday life of citizen and visitor alike."

There is a rule on trains, for example, that beer can be served only with food. A passenger said he had his own sandwiches. The blonde waitress said they would have to be railroad sandwiches, not his. "All right," he said, "one of yours, then, and a bottle of beer."

But the blonde had no sandwiches and he got no beer.

Another regulation put restrictions on building because of a manpower shortage. A man could not build a house unless he or his family did the work. This time a loophole was found, says Mr. Axelsson.

"One authentic case was reported of a government building-license bureau advising an applicant to adopt a carpenter as his son if he wanted to get his house built."

The carpenter was adopted, and presumably the house was built. But there are no further details as to how the arrangement is working out. Had the applicant a daughter? If so, did she marry the carpenter and set up housekeeping in the new house? Did she insist on having several more closets built after sizing things up?

Perhaps the carpenter found that adoption, daughter or no daughter, was more than he had anticipated. Could he and his foster-father dissolve the contract without too much trouble? Or is everybody happy and cozy?

Before Americans start adopting carpenters to get houses built faster, there are obviously certain angles to be considered.

FLOODS NEXT!

Now comes the season of the year when flood news makes the front pages and rivers overflowing banks cause havoc and dislocation. Whether this spring is to be an exception is not yet clear, but everything is against it.

It was quite a winter in most areas, and melting snow and thawing terrain will send streams cascading over their banks. In flood areas people are making plans for the annual visitation.

When a river overflows its banks and floods towns and farms, man is helpless. All he can do is take measures calculated to soften the impact.

If the boom is over, as some predict, the white-collar man can quit worrying about how he will feed his family, and start worrying about how he will care for his kinfolk.

Kansas City woman who gave her savings to a stranger who had inside government information on the grain market, now has inside information from the police that the man is a crook.

Trading Out U. S. A.

But the foreigners present are not willing to accept "global free trade." Many of their governments are supported by the income of their tariffs, and have no other source of taxes to keep them going; free trade would bankrupt them. Most of them, too, are interested in building up their industries, and know perfectly well that unless they can keep cheap foreign goods under control, such industrialization can never take place.

Their reasons for wanting protective tariffs are somewhat different than those of the American group which also demands protective tariffs. The American interest lies in the need for protecting, not the producers themselves, but the high wages and living standards of the American working people, which lead to production costs that cannot possibly stand up under direct, dollar-for-dollar competition with cheap, slave or subsidized labor abroad.

Now has this deadlock between American free-traders and foreign believers in protection (either by tariffs themselves or by such other expedients as licensing, quotas, trick currencies, etc.) been broken so that progress has been made in writing the charter?

It has been broken by Uncle Sam backing down all up and down the line. The American representatives have made new "concessions." These concessions do not cost the representatives anything, they aren't working in factories for their living, they aren't trying to run manufacturing plants, and in the main they have little money invested in industry.

The cost of these concessions will have to be borne, in the long run, by American citizens of three classes—those who work for their living, those who have businesses of their own, and those who have savings invested in such businesses.

These concessions are so wrong in principle that they will, eventually, kill off ITO just as certainly as the veto clause has destroyed the effectiveness of the United Nations. But in the meantime, incalculable harm can be done to American economy, world-position, and standards of living.

One major concession is acceptance of the "one-country-one-vote" principle. Despite the size of the United States, and despite its leadership in world trade, it has only one vote—the same as the smallest nation present. What this means is no obvious that it hardly needs pointing out. Small nations can form blocs, and thereby cut the pattern for this nation's foreign trade.

As a matter of fact, already a group of Latin-American countries, whose combined world trade wouldn't equal that of a single American industrial center, has been organized and has begun "laying down the law" to Uncle Sam on what he shall and shall not do.

Another concession, largely the outcome of this method of voting, may have far-reaching and dangerous consequences. If the "cold war" with Russia continues, Russia has not joined ITO. The U. S. position originally was that concessions made among ITO members should not be shared by non-members. Nevertheless, it has been forced to make a "concession" in this regard. Now Russia, and all her numerous satellites, can take advantage of the tariff concessions, without any liabilities on their part.

Again the Americans entered the conference giving at least lip-service to the principle of free economy. Here also they have backed down. They have accepted a long list of Socialistic states, where industries are nationalized, as full partners. Since these small, weak and economically unound countries each has as many votes as Uncle Sam, in combination they can hopelessly out-vote the U. S. A., and thereby dominate ITO.

Even the basic principles of free trade, which were the objectives of the New Dealers in the conference, have been tried out. Immenseable exceptions and escape clauses will permit foreign nations to insist that we keep our own tariffs well below the protective levels, but will allow them to use discriminatory and bilateral practices, or resort to quotas, licensing, and other tricky trade restraints by which our exports to these countries will be curtailed.

Strangest concession of all was in respect to Russia. The Muscovites have now wrecked the United Nations by their persistent use of the veto. They are the great threat of further expansion and aggression—the one serious danger of a World War III.

Yet American representatives at Havana have offered Russia a chance, if she wishes to enter ITO without modifying her aggressive attitude in the least. Under the terms of the charter as it now is reported on from Havana, Russia could join ITO at once, with no real concessions on her part. As a matter of fact, she could bring with her an army of captive countries each with a vote—enough of them to "take over" the ITO and use it as a club for beating down the countries such as this one who wish to bar her from trying to conquer the world!

Inside Your Congress

Fair Play In Congress

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

This column has reference to 50 person now under investigation by any Congressional committee. I want to make that plain. If Russian agents are prying into our military secrets, and if American citizens are helping them, they must be exposed.

But for a long time some Congressional committee members have gone far beyond the limits of fair play. That practice must stop. Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois has introduced a resolution providing that any person who thinks he has been defamed before a committee shall have the following rights:

(1) To file his own sworn statement in reply, which must be made a part of the permanent record of the hearings.

(2) To appear personally before the committee.

(3) To compel the committee to subpoena up to four witnesses in his behalf.

(4) The right of counsel.

(5) If, or his counsel, may cross examine witnesses.

(6) No committee report shall be issued until it has been approved by a majority of a quorum of the committee.

(7) No committee statement, or report, charging misconduct by any person shall be published or filed unless and until the person charged shall be advised of the charge and shall have a reasonable opportunity to defend himself.

If Congress is genuinely concerned about civil rights in this country, it should pass this, or some similar resolution, to govern its committee. It is intolerable that committee members, hungry for the headlines, should make sensational attacks on the good name of an American citizen in the newspaper or on the radio, and then give him no opportunity to defend himself.

The investigating powers of Congress are very important. Among its other duties, Congress is the great board of audit of the Federal government. It must expose corruption, waste, and traitors.

But, as Senator Lattas well says: "It is precisely because of the indispensable function of a Congressional committee in exposing corruption wherever it may be found, that I feel the time is ripe for the reform of committee procedures."

It is of the highest importance that these committees enjoy the unquestioned respect and confidence of the American people, for if they do not, they will lose their usefulness as the tools of Congress.

Congress is not a court. Except in the rare case of impeachment, or contempt of Congress, it has no power to try, fine or imprison anyone. Congressional committees could not observe all the rules of judicial trial. Time does not permit Congress has too many other things to do.

Mr. Lucas' resolution wisely limits the number of witnesses, and the time to be spent in the defense of wounded reputations.

On the floor of the House or Senate, a member may talk freely. The Constitution wisely gives him this immunity. But rarely is this privilege abused. The Congressional man knows he is speaking in a public forum where fair play is expected—where hitting below the belt is almost certain to degrade the one who does it.

It is attacks in a committee room, where few members are present, or before newspaper reporters, or on the radio, that the Senator's resolution is designed to prevent.

Injustice to Congress, most committees conduct their investigations with dignity, courtesy and fairness. It is the rotten apple that makes the barrel smell.

Revival Services Here In 1915 Had Many Converts

Two newspapers, the Philadelphia Record dated October 13, 1961, and the Bristol Courier dated Mar. 1, 1915, have been sent to the Courier office by Charles Thompson, well-known Bath street merchant.

In the Philadelphia Record of over 46 years ago there is an interesting story headed "Bristol in Its Prime." The story deals with the famous springs known as the Bath Springs. The article is illustrated showing scenes as the Bath Springs area appeared in 1811.

The issue of the Courier deals generously with revival campaigns then in progress here by the united churches of Bristol, and which were conducted by the Rev. William Asher, who was an understudy of the late Billy Sunday who had been conducting a revival series in Philadelphia.

The Asher services were held in the Bristol Methodist Church, and according to The Courier of that date the campaign closed February 25th, and the following statistics were given: Number of converts for each of the churches: Methodist, 152; Presbyterian, 96; First Baptist, 152; St. Paul's Episcopal, 42; Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, 31; English Lutheran, three; German Lutheran, two; St. Mark's Catholic, two; Second Baptist, two; St. James' Episcopal, one; Hebrews, one; out-of-town churches, 33; no church signified four. Total 418.

Revival statistics—Estimated total attendance, 16,500; number of converts, 418; number of meetings held, 23; collections, $1411.19.

At that time, according to the Courier, the San Carlo Opera Company was presenting Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci at the Bristol Theatre, which was located on Wood street near Penn. What is the Grand Theatre now was then the Popper, where Mary Pickford was being shown in "The Good Little Devil." There was also vaudeville. At the Riverside Theatre, now the Bristol, the Enterprise Amusement Co. was presenting the Tip Top Beauties, a "whirlly girly show" with Harry Monroe and Billie Benton, in the musical farce "My Wife's Husband."

HOW TO GET A HOUSE BUILT

Writing from Stockholm to a New York newspaper, George Axelson says that the Swedes
"have gone to extremes on the subject of law and order, and in their zeal to reach perfection have created a jungle of regulations and orders that complicate the everyday life of citizen and visitor alike."

There is a rule on trains, for example, that beer can be served only with food. A passenger said he had his own sandwiches. The blonde waitress said they would have to be railroad sandwiches,
not his. "All right," he said, "one of yours, then, and a bottle of beer."

But the blonde had no sandwiches and he got no beer.

Another regulation put restrictions on building because of a manpower shortage. A man could not build a house unless he or his family did the work. This time a loophole was found, says
Mr. Axelson.

"One authentic case was reported of a government building-license bureau advising an applicant to adopt a carpenter as his son if he wanted to get his house built."

The carpenter was adopted, and presumably the house was built. But there are no further details as to how the arrangement is working out. Had the applicant a daughter? If so, did she marry the carpenter and set up housekeeping in the new house? Did she insist on having several more closets built after sizing things up?

Perhaps the carpenter found that adoption, daughter or no daughter, was more than he had anticipated. Could he and his foster-father dissolve the contract without too much trouble? Or is everybody happy and cozy?

Before Americans start adopting carpenters to get houses built faster, there are obviously certain angles to be considered.

FLOODS NEXT?

Now comes the season of the year when flood news makes the front pages and rivers overflowing banks cause havoc and dislo-cation. Whether this spring is to be an exception is not yet clear,
but everything is against it.

It was quite a winter in most areas, and melting snow and thawing terrain will send streams cascading over their banks. In flood areas people are making plans for the annual visitation.

When a river overflows its banks and floods towns and farms, man is helpless. All he can do is take measures calculated to soften the impact.

If the boom is over, as some predict, the white-collar man can quit worrying about how he will feed his family, and start worrying about how he will care for his kinfolk.

Kansas City woman who gave her savings to a stranger who had inside government information on the grain market, now has inside information from the police that the man is a crook.

Trading Out U. S. A.

But the foreigners present are not willing to accept "global free trade." Many of their governments are supported by the income of their tariffs, and have no other source of taxes to keep them going; free trade would bankrupt them. Most of them, too, are interested in building up their industries, and know perfectly well that, unless they can keep cheap foreign goods under control, such industrialization can never take place.

Their reasons for wanting protective tariffs are somewhat different than those of the American group which also demands protective tariffs.
The American interest lies in the need for protecting, not the producers themselves, but the high wages and living standards of the American working people, which lead to production costs that cannot possibly stand up under direct dollar-for-dollar competition with cheap, slave or subsidized labor abroad.

How has this deadlock between American free-traders and foreign believers in protection (either by tariffs themselves or by such other expedients as licensing, quotas, trick currencies, etc.) been broken so that progress has been made in writing the charter?

It has been broken by Uncle Sam backing down all up and down the line. The American representatives have made new "concessions." These concessions do not cost the representatives anything—they aren't working in factories for their living, they aren't trying to run manufacturing plants, and in the main they have little money invested in industry.

The cost of these concessions will have to be borne, in the long run, by American citizens of three classes—those who work for their living, those who have businesses of their own, and those who have savings invested in such businesses.

These concessions are so wrong in principle that they will, eventually, kill off ITO just as certainly as the veto clause has destroyed the effectiveness of the United Nations. But in the meantime, incalculable harm can be done to American economy, world position, and standards of living.

One major concession is acceptance of the "one-country, one-vote" principle. Despite the size of the United States, and despite its leadership in world trade, it has only one vote—the same as the smallest nation present. What this means is so obvious that it hardly needs pointing out. Small nations can form blocs, and thereby cut the pattern for this nation's foreign trade.

As a matter of fact, already a group of Latin-American countries, whose combined world trade wouldn't equal that of a single American industrial center, has been organized and has begun "laying down the law" to Uncle Sam on what he shall and shall not do.

Another concession, largely the outcome of this method of voting, has been far-reaching and dangerous consequences, if the "cold war" originally was that concessions made among ITO members should not be shared by non-members. Nevertheless, it has been forced to make a "concession" in this regard. Now Russia, and all her numerous satellites, can take advantage of the tariff concessions, without any liabilities on their part.

Again, the Americans entered the conference giving at least lip-service to the principle of free economy. Here also they have backed down. They have accepted a long list of Socialistic states, where industries are nationalized, as full partners. Since these small, weak and economically un sound countries each has as many votes as Uncle Sam, in combination they can hopelessly out-vote the U. S. A., and thereby dominate ITO.

Even the basic principles of free trade, which were the objectives of the New Dealers in the conference, have been traded out. Immensible excepts and escape clauses will permit foreign nations to insist that we keep our own tariffs well below the protective levels, but will allow them to use discriminatory and bilateral practices, or resort to quotas, licensing, and other tricky trade restraints by which our exports to these countries will be curtailed.

Strategic concession of all was in respect to Russia. The Muscovites have now wrecked the United Nations by their persistent use of the veto.
They are the great threat of further expansion and aggression—the one serious danger of a World War III.

Yet American representatives at Havana have offered Russia a chance, if she wishes to enter ITO without modifying her aggressive attitude in the least. Under the terms of the charter as it now is reported from Havana, Russia could join ITO at once, with no real concessions on her part. As a matter of fact, she could bring with her an army of captive countries, each with a vote—enough of them to "take over" the ITO and use it as a club for beating down the countries such as this one, who wish to bar her from trying to conquer the world!

(5) He, or his counsel, may cross examine witnesses.

(6) No committee report shall be issued until it has been approved by a majority of a quorum of the committee.

(7) No committee statement, or report, charging misconduct by any person shall be published or filed unless and until the person charged shall be advised of the charge and shall have a reasonable opportunity to defend himself.

If Congress is genuinely concerned about civil rights in this country, it should pass this, or some similar resolution, to govern its committees. It is intolerable that committee members, hungry
for headlines, should make sensational attacks on the good name of an American citizen in the newspapers or on the radio, and then give him no opportunity to defend himself.

The investigating powers of Congress are very important. Among its other duties, Congress is the great board of audit of the Federal government. It must expose corruption, waste, and traitors.

But, as Senator Lucas well says:
"It is precisely because of the indispensable function of a Congressional committee in exposing corruption wherever it may be found that I feel the time is ripe for the reform of committee procedures."

It is of the highest importance that these committees enjoy the unquestioned respect and confidence of the American people, for if they do not, they will lose their usefulness as the tools of Congress.

Congress is not a court. Except in the rare case of impeachment,
or contempt of Congress, it has no power to try, fine or imprison anyone. Congressional committees could not observe all the rules of judicial trial. Time does not permit. Congress has too many other things to do.

Mr. Lucas resolution wisely limits the number of witnesses, and the time to be spent in the defense of wounded reputations.

On the floor of the House or Senate, a member may talk freely.
The Constitution wisely gives him this immunity. But rarely is this privilege abused. The Congressman knows he is speaking in a public forum where fair play is expected—where hitting below the belt is almost certain to degrade the one who does it. In a committee room, where few members are present, or before newspaper reporters, or over the radio, that the Senator's resolution is designed to prevent.

In justice to Congress, most committees conduct their investigations with dignity, courtesy and fairness. It is the rotten apple that makes the barrel smell.

Revival Services Here In 1915 Had Many Converts

Two newspapers, the Philadelphia Record dated October 13, 1961,
and the Bristol Courier, dated Mar.
1, 1915, have been sent to the Courier office by Charles Thompson,
well-known Bath street merchant.

In the Philadelphia Record of over 46 years ago there is an interesting story headed "Bristol in Its Prime." The story deals with the famous springs known as the Bath Springs. The article is illustrated showing scenes as the Bath Springs area appeared in 1811.

The issue of the Courier deals generously with revival campaigns then in progress here by the united churches of Bristol, and which were conducted by the Rev. William Asher, who was an understudy of the late Billy Sunday who had been conducting a revival series in Philadelphia.

The Asher services were held in the Bristol Methodist Church, and according to The Courier of that date the campaign closed February 28th, and the following statistics were given: Number of converts
for each of the churches: Methodist, 152; Presbyterian, 95; First Baptist,
50; St. Paul's Episcopal, 42; Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, 31;
English Lutheran, three; German Lutheran, two; St. Mark's Catholic, two; Second Baptist, two; St.
James' Episcopal, one; Hebrews,
one; out-of-town churches, 33; no church signified four. Total 418.

Revival statistics—Estimated total attendance, 16,500; number of converts, 418; number of meetings held, 23; collections, $1411.10.

At that time, according to the Courier, the San Carlo Opera Company was presenting Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci at the Bristol Theatre, which was located on Wood street near Penn. What is the Grand Theatre now was then the Forrest, where Mary Pickford was being shown in "The Good Little Devil." There was also David Lloyd, at the Riverside Theatre, now
the Bristol, the Enterprise Amusement Co. was presenting the Tip Top Beauties, a "whirly girly show with Harry Monroe and Billie Benton in the musical farce "My Wife's Husband."

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev.
Andrew Geo. Solta, Th. D., D. D.
Pastor, Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour

Dear God, our merciful Father, we have come safely through many dangers this day because of Thy watchful care and protection over us. For this we give Thee our most sincere thanks and pray that Thou wouldst continue to deliver us from the dangers that would harm both body and soul. This we ask in Christ's most precious name. Amen.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION TO CONDUCT GOLD MEDAL SERIES OF BASKETBALL GAMES HERE

A Lower Bucks County Gold Medal Basketball Tournament will be conducted by the Bristol High School Athletic Association and teams from this vicinity are invited to participate. The elimination tournament will begin on March 29th and end in the first week of April.

The Lower Bucks County tournament will be part of the Central States Basketball Tournament whose headquarters are in Indianapolis, Ind.

At a meeting held this week in the high school, some of the rules of the tournament were released. The tournament will be limited to 13 teams. Players on the teams must not have reached their 19th birthday. Only two varsity players from any high school team will be allowed on any one team. Eight minute quarters will be played with three games each evening, first starting at 7 o'clock.

There will be a $5.00 entry fee for each team. Two large trophies will be given as awards and in addition 71 individual medals will be awarded. These trophies and medals are for the Lower Bucks County tournament and will be displayed in Mignoni's Store, Mill St.

"Jerry" Bloom, coach of the Bristol High School, is tournament manager and others on the committee are: Harry McClister, Henry Morgan, John Dougherty, George Perkins, Horace Jefferies, Benjamin Watson, Thomas Juno, Devon Smith, Carmen Mignoni, William Pearson, and Walter Rosser.

Applications are now being received and blanks can be procured from any of the above. The applications must be in the hands of Coach Bloom or Walter Rosser before March 24th.

"Cairo is the cross roads from India, and many celebrities look up the University," concluded Mrs. Dwinell.

Mrs. William G. Herdridge, regent, presided at the meeting. Two prospective members by transfer were introduced, Mrs. Thomas Nichols, of Newtown, and Mrs. Flynn, of Wycombe.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Frank J. Linton, Mrs. J. Carlisle Hobensack and Mrs. Frank Fabian.

momentous talk were calm and unexpectedly mild.

Mr. Truman approved the final draft of his speech shortly before 7 p. m. last night after conferring throughout the afternoon with his staff and top cabinet advisers on its contents.

These advisers included Secretary of State Marshall; Secretary of Defense Forrestal; Secretary of Commerce Harriman, who is a former ambassador both to Russia and Britain and who was an expert on wartime lend-lease, and State Department counselor Charles E. Bohlen, an ace Russian expert.

The President spoke to a Republican majority in the Congress wholly sympathetic to proposals for strengthening the nation's defenses in face of the Russian menace.

Anticipating the President's message, House Speaker Martin declared that if Italy fails to the Communists in the April 18 election, all Europe will come under Russian domination.

Martin announced an informal agreement by the GOP steering committee to approve new billions for a large-scale rearmament program. He said:

"The constant advance of the iron curtain across Europe has created a grave crisis in our international relations.

"There is no reason for the American people to be other than perfectly calm as we all strive for peace."

Martin declared that the nation will meet the crisis "and meet it promptly" as "America is united."

He added:

"We must build up our military and naval establishments. We must build and maintain a mighty air defense. We must have the strongest navy on the seas. We must make ourselves absolutely supreme in the air and under the seas.

"In this issue, where the fate of civilization is at stake, we must spare no effort to be sure of the outcome."

The House Speaker said the GOP Steering Committee agreed to approve the President's eleven billion dollar military budget as well as additional funds for a stronger air force.

Martin predicted passage of the European recovery bill in the House by April 1. He said he believed final passage of a conference measure can be sped to send the bill to the President by April 5.
